County Tax Rate Rises

Countywide tax rates for the 1970-71 fiscal year have increased in 46 of California's 58 counties, a fact which underscores the growing need for property tax relief through tax reform, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy reported recently.

Flournoy said his Annual Report on Assessed Valuation and Tax Rates of the Counties of California showed increases in countywide rates "running as high as 56 percent, with several over 40 percent, and a 20 percent increase common."

"It must be remembered that the countywide rate is only one of many local rates that add to the burden on property," Flournoy said. He cited increasing general assistance welfare costs as a major factor in the growth of many countywide rates.

"Action must be taken at the State level to direct these welfare costs away from the local property tax and bring about a more equitable distribution of the tax burden," the controller said. "A tax reform program similar to that proposed by the Governor this year is needed."

Monterey County is among the 46 counties showing increases in county general purpose tax rates for the 1970-71 fiscal year, Flournoy reported.

Monterey's ratio of county assessed value to market value is 22.6%.

Monterey County's general purposes tax rate for 1970-71 is $2.44 compared to $2.32 for 1969-70.

Yuba County reported the largest rate increase, $1.77, which pushed its rate to $5.21, the highest in the State outside of the $12.82 total city-county rate applying to San Francisco.

Mariposa County dropped its tax rate 16 cents to lead the counties reporting decreases and to achieve the lowest rate among all the counties, $1.64. Other rate cuts were in Colusa, Del Norte, El Dorado, Lassen, Nevada, San Benito, Sierra and Tuolumne Counties.

The rates were unchanged in Placer, Siskiyou and Tehama Counties.

Equipment Is Needed At Care Center

Monterey Peninsual College's new day care center for young children of students located in Room E-5 in the engineering building on the west side of the campus, is in need of donations of various types of equipment, according to Ed Norris, MPC student activities advisor.

Among items desired are highchairs, children's tables and chairs, toy chests, cribs car-beds, baby bottles, children's clothing, toys, disposable diapers, rubber pants and pictures appropiate for children of pre-school age.

Donations amy be left at the nursery school or in the student activities office in the College Center (phone 375-9821, Ext. 326 or 306).

"Money for supplies will also not be refused," Norris says. "Checks should be made out to 'ASMPC Child Center' and sent to the college, 980 Fremont, Monterey in care of Mrs. Fern Jolley, student account clerk."

The center is now serving some 15 children of students, with student mothers Mrs. Laurie Bartholomew and Mrs. Phyllis Smith most active in its operation.

Heart Fund Contributions Increase

The 1970 Heart Fund campaign of the Central Mission Trails Heart Association raised a total of $83,620 in the three counties of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito.

Charles F. Ziert of Carmel, treasurer of the 3-county health agency, said that this represents an increase in public support of 5-1/2 percent through Heart Sunday contributions, special gifts, responses to mail solicitations, business gifts, memorial contributions and benefits -- surpassing last year's Heart income from the same sources by $4,335.

The overall increase was achieved by the Heart group despite a slight downturn in public contributions from communities in the Monterey Peninsula area -- $18,224 this year compared to $19,788 in 1969.

Other sources of income to the Heart Association are bequests and interest on savings.

In 1969, bequests totalled $18,533. This year, only one legacy was received, for $500.

Investment income this year, was $7,498.

Proceeds from individual Peninsula communities in 1970.

Tips Given For Yule Mailing

Postmaster Earle H. Flaws has listed six tips on how residents of Seaside can help meet tight Christmas budgets this year by careful mailing of cards and parcels.

For the most efficient mailing, Mr. Flaws suggested the following steps:

For servicemen overseas-"SAM" (Space Available Mail) Christmas parcels can be sent until November 20 for only the small domestic parcel post charge involved from Seaside to East or West Coast points of embarcation for military mail. Parcels up to 5 pounds and 60 inches in combined length and girth are accepted at this low rate.

Larger parcels (up to 30 pounds with the same length and girth limitations) can be sent as "PAL" (Parcel Airlift) mail, provided they are mailed by November 27. The charge is only $1 per parcel plus the regular domestic parcel post postage-much less than charges that would apply later if straight airmail service must be provided.

For all packaging, invest in good quality, study wrapping materials. This small investment can help insure undamaged delivery of valuable gifts and prevent delays which might result if rewrapping were required in transit.

Insure parcels realistically to cover full value but do not overinsure. A $10 gift, for example, can bring only $10 compensation, if lost, even if insured for $100.

Get plenty of stamps on your first trip to the post office to avoid the time and expense of additional trips.

Use ZIP Code as a tool for economy in mailing. When it is used consistently on parcels and cards, ZIP Code helps prevent errors in delivery and expedites handling. If only a few Christmas cards go astray, an investment of several dollars may be lost, for example.

"The key to efficient Christmas mailing," Mr. Flaws commented, "is to mail early and carefully. Clear addressing, with the ZIP Codes, proper packaging and early depositing can pervent most problems and provide the greatest value for money spent for postage."

Moog Concert Tomorrow

A program entitled "An E.ening with the Moog Synthesizer - in Concert" will wind up Monterey Peninsula College's "Outer Limits" series tomorrow (Friday) at 8 p.m. in the MPC Theater.

Lecturer and performer on the modern electronic musical instrument will be Douglas McKenchie, described as one of the foremost "Moog artists."

McKenchnie, who speaks of the "Moog" as "the Gutenberg Press of the electric age" has demonstrated the instrument at such diverse showplaces as the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco, the San Francisco Art Institute, the San Francisco Opera House - and at the Altamont Speedway with the Rolling Stones.

The synthesizer bears the name of its creator Robert Mmmg, an amateur musicia with a Ph.D. in engineering physics from Cornell. He built the instrument "to free the musical artist from the normal restructions of conventional instruments" and describes it as a "voltage-controlled analogue computer as opposed to digital."

Composed of amplifiers, mixers, filters and voltage control oscillators which are controlled through a series of patch panels, control knobs and a keyboard, it has "an infinite range of tone, pitch and rhythm."

McKechnie, who majored in communication arts at San Francisco State College, is San Francisco area coordinator for EAT (Experiments in Art and Technology.

Tickets for the "concert," priced at $1.50, are available at MPC's community services office and will be sold at the theater door.

School Week Will Begin November 16

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District has declared the week of November 16 through 21 as Seaside, Sand City, Del Rey Oaks Community Schools Week.

The action of the school district came at their October 19 meeting.

Bank Will Hold an Open House

An all-day open house celebrating the move of United California Bank's Salinas office into spacious and modern new quarters at 456 Main Street will be held tomorrow Friday, November 6, it was announced by Robert H. Steveson, vice president and manager of the office.

Steveson said the gala event will climax the bank's first week of operation in the new quarters, which have replaced the old branch building a block away at 416 South Main Street.

The new building represents a total investment by UCB of $700,000 for land, building, and banking fixtures.

Salinas area community leaders taking part in the 9:30 a.m. opening ceremony will be : Arthur Atteridge, county supervisor; George Davis, president of the Salinas Chamber of Commerce; James Duffy, city finance director; Tom Dunne, city manager; G.S. Gadsby, mayor of Salinas; Olga Guzman, homecoming queen of Hartnell College and Orville Molmen, county treasurer.

Representing the bank's senior management will be Charles D. Baillie, executive vice president, San Francisco Headquarters. Other officers from the bank's San Francisco Headquarters attending will include: A.H. Kingman, Jr., vice president and branch administrator for the bank in this area; C.H. Lipson, vice president and sales administrator and J.S. Nordstrom, vice president and district operations officer. Also present will be Donald R. Swanson, branch promotion coordinator, Los Angeles Headquarters.

Following the opening program will be a day-long house celebration from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. There will be refreshments and free gifts for everyone, and drawings for $25, $15, and $10 savings accounts will be held hourly, climaxed by a grand prize drawing for a $100 account at 5:30 p.m.

The new structure will have 9200 square feet of floor space on its ground floor and mazzanine and is built of a rigid steel frame supporting a truce joist roof system. Exterior walls are composed of integal colored stucco, glass and aluminum. The fully air conditioned interior will feature plaster painted walls, glass and walnut banking fixtures. Ceilings are suspended acoustical tile with luminous areas of varying height and coffered entries. Flooring is quarry and vinyl tile with carpeting in the officers area.

Parking for 39 cars is available in an adjacent parking lot, with space provided for future expansion. The office will offer a full range of banking services, includin two drive-up teller windows and a night depository for merchants and businessmen who cannot visit the bank during regular business hours.

"We feel that this move into new quarters is the best way possible to reward our customers for their loyalty, because we now will be able to give them the most modern banking facilities available." Steveson said.

PTA Is Again Distributing Scholarships

The California PTA is currently distributing $97,000 to colleges and universities throughout the state in this year's allocation of funds for scholarships for the 1971-72 academic year.

The funds are earmarked for scholarships in the fields of elementary teacher education, secondary teacher education, patient nursing, special education, school librarian, youth corrections and counseling and guidance.

A breakdown of the allocation is as follows: 98 elementary teacher education scholarships at $500 for a total of $49,000; 50 secondary teacher education at $500 for $25,000; 38 patient nursing for $3,800; 13 special education at $500 for $6,500; 9 school librarian at $500 for $4,500; 2 youth corrections at $500 for $1,000; and 36 counseling and guidance at $200 for $7,200.

Elementary teacher education scholarships will be awarded by 41 colleges and universities and the secondary scholarships by 33.

In distributing its funds for scholarships, the California PTA recognizes only schools that are accredited by the California State Board of Education and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. The institutions select the scholarship recipients and disburse the funds, with the exception of recipients of the counseling and guidance summer session scholarships and the youth corrections scholarships.

Application forms for counseling and guidance scholarships may be obtained from the California PTA State Office, 930 Georgia Street, Los Angeles 90015, after December 1 and must be returned by April 1, 1971.

Forms for the youth corrections scholarships may be obtained from the California PTA State Office or the general manager of the California Probation, Parole and Correctional Association, 1220 H

This Column was written before the election last Tuesday. The tenor and tone of the election campaign rhetoric led me to the writings of Kahlil Gibran to reinforce my faith in love and in humanity.

For over 35 years I have been an active participant in election campaigns. My activity goes back to Richard Nixon's first infamous nasty campaign against Congressman Jerry Voorhees. Most of us in the business thought that that campaign was the lowest in smear and innuendo, but the campaign that we just witnessed was by far lower than that. Only this time the smear and innuendo and fear and hatred-spread-

Who Cares

BY Mel Vercoe

Missionaries, arise and go forthwith to California to convert the heathen homosexuals who threaten to take over control of poor little presumably Christian Alpine County. But, wear your long underwear, for alas, it is soon winter in Alpine County and the roads will be closed by the snow. Take ye heed, forsooth, for there will be more than enough snow for missionaries and homosexuals alike.

Reverend Carl McIntire, who by now must have about the same standing among responsible religious folk as our honorable Vice President has among thinking Republicans, didn't succeed in bringing South Vietnamese Vice President Ky to Washington for a victory rally. But on or about October 26, the good reverend saw another shining light--he is launching a new crusade to save a cold little county of 723 square miles of mountains and about 400 rugged residents from an onrushing horde of homosexuals who will come from Los Angeles, San Francisco and other unknown haunts to take up voting residence in said Alpine County.

It is unlikely the missionaries will be able to stop the migration and the next election should find Markleeville, the county seat, fully equipped with a homosexual mayor, sheriff, coroner, police chief, tax assessor and prosecuting attorney. This may very well involve a period of patient adjustment on the part of the original residents and all eyes will turn toward the east where Rev. McIntire lives in New Jersey. Then almost everybody will try to stay out of jail until the incoming missionaries outnumber the homosexuals.

Hopefully, the missionaries will be able to convert the homosexuals before the homosexuals convert the missionaries.

And even if they don't and we lose some of the missionaries, things won't be all bad. After all, Alpine County will probably have the lowest birth rate in the western hemisphere, which is a step forward.

Also, taxes should be low, with almost no need for schools and practically no mothers or children on welfare.

Alpine County, the only predominantly homosexual registered county in America, could be a model of success for our capitalistic system. Overburdened taxpayers on fixed income might just flock to Alpine County; real estate salesmen and builders would be working day and night and property values would go sky high, which means that if you want to get there and make a lot of money before the hoarders get there, you had better buy some tire chains and line up at the pass when the snow starts to melt.

And one other thing, maybe some kind reader could inform me on a minor point of possible discrimination: are homosexuals not Christians? Are they barred from Christian church membership, or just where did Rev. McIntire get the idea that converting them to Christianity would change their personal lives enough to make them good Americans to his peculiar point of view?

Bob Wood Reports

It is now late Thursday night, five days before the election, but by the time this article reaches you in your weekly paper, the election will be over.

By this time next week the election results will show whether or not my efforts have provided our people in Monterey County with good, adequate representation in Sacramento or whether it is time to sharpen my old pruning shears and prepare to return to the apricot orchard January first.

My good wife, for several reasons, would probably just as soon see the latter, but she knows deep down that there are many problems that need tackling within our Great State and she knows that I couldn't live with my own conscience if I dodged that responsibility.

This last session we voted to try an experiment and I thought you would like to know about it so that we could follow it through the year. I will report back to you at the end of that time.

To give you a little background, did you know that out of every five students now in high school, three will end up working in some way only two years after their high school graduation, the fourth will likely take some job within another year and that leaves only the fifth student (one out of five) as the one who will complete college.

We all know that our high schools are college-preparatory oriented. Even though there are courses of instruction, along with a college-preparatory course, we know that few of them adequately equip a student to enter the business world, the blue collar labor force or some kind of trade, upon graduation.

When you add this number, along with the number of drop-outs who usually end up on relief, it starts one to thinking that possibly our educational system could use more vocational education.

The Legislature voted to try an experiment in a unified district with over 30,000 pupils. The district will have the responsibility of developing an individualized instruction program that includes vocational education as a regular part of the curriculum and no student can graduate without having completed the vocational course.

The idea, of course, will be to offer a student who chooses not to further his education after high school a more stable and useful basis on which to enter the world of business. The year of change confronts every student in our public schools today. No longer can a student depend upon a high school diploma to qualify him for a job. It will be interesting to see, at the end of the year, how this program is making out. Remind me to report back to you at the end of the year, if we are both still in circulation.

It isn't very popular to be a soldier at the present time, but when our security is threatened from without, or within, we turn to him and suddenly that same soldier seems ten feet tall. I have been reminded by Sis Gregory, the former Sissy Fitzwater of Greenfield, that this week is the last week to remember our servicemen overseas with Christmas packages.

These are the young men who will not receive any Christmas from home because their parents have passed away, they have been raised in foster homes or simply because nobody cares. Sis tells me that everyone can help and for further information you may call Peggy Fulton, 385-5698 (in King City). Those of you who do not live in southern Monterey County may call your local R.O.S.E. (Remember Our Servicemen Everywhere).

Walk Through History

San Juan Bautista, called "The City of History," makes a fascinating auto trip for all members of the family along the historic El Camino Real. The little mission town is southeast of Gilroy, west of Hollister.

In summer when the heat waves shimmer along the Salinas Valley and cattle seek the shade of trees, the sun-baked buildings of San Juan Bautista--rich with the tradition of Mexico and early mission settlements--take on new meaning.

A walk around the plaza and a visit to some of the old structures nearby is literally a walk through California history.

San Juan Bautista is actually a compounding of three periods of California's colorful history--the Mission period, the Mexican and the early American periods.

The mission itself was both a church and monastery of the Catholic Church. It was built in 1797 and the church was the largest of the mission churches.

The bell that hangs in the garden in front of the chapel is the only one left of nine that hung there originally.

The walls inside show the original decorations done by the Indian converts, in paint made from ground rock.

The convent wing of the mission which adjoins the church contains many interesting relics of the early days.

Directly opposite the mission across the plaza is a building called "Plaza Hall." This is Zanetta House, erected in 1815 to house unmarried

The hotel was built as a the mission period it was used as headquarters by the cavalrymen of General Jose Castro. When Angelo Zanetta acquired the house, he tore down the walls and rebuilt them of adobe in 1868. Upstairs is a large hall, famous as Plaza Hall. The lower floor was Zanetta's private residence.

Other historic buildings around the plaza are Castro House, build in 1840-41, and barracks and headquarters for the Spanish soldiers stationed there to protect the Franciscan padres in their work with the Indians.

In back of the mission is the Indian cemetery with the graves of over 4,000 of those who lived at the mission settlement.

Fair Warning

By Bill Smallwood

Pray take heed, my love:
Don't believe all the things
These eyes would say,
And
Don't believe all the kisses
These lips would give,
And
Don't let my sigh in your hair
Set you trembling . . . .
But if you are free at the moment,
Let's at least pretend.

Ordination Is Unusual

At New York's Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, the Rev. Zane Gordy was being ordained.

It was no ordinary ritual. A rock band played "The Age of Aquarius" which is from "Hair." A dozen or so Episcopal priests wore chasubles of psychedelic colors and designs. People frequently applauded and embraced.

President of SJS Defends His Students

The following is a statement by San Jose State College president, John H. Bunzel concerning the demonstration against President Nixon:

"What began as a peaceful protest against the national involvement in the Vietnam war, turned into an angry, obscene and violent demonstration against the President of the United States. This type of protest, whatever its underlying motivation, is unpardonable and in some ways obscene in itself.

"A large part of the group demonstrating, numbering approximately one thousand, held a rally at the edge of the San Jose State College campus and then marched to the Civic Auditorium to voice their protest. Less than half of these were our students. Inside the Auditorium were 15 of our student body leaders, serving to keep the situation calm and within the boundaries of acceptable protest. Unfortunately, some of the demonstrators outside felf compelled to resort to physical, rather vocal protest. None of the arrested demonstrators were SJSC students.

"President Nixon has repeatedly commented that the antics of a few of our youth should not be construed as the actions of the majority of our young people. In this I agree. Twenty-four thousand of our students and most of them oppose our national involvement in Vietnam, did not enter into that form of protest. They deserve no censure for the mindless acts of a few."

Graduation Is Held at DLIWC

Five awards and six certificates of achievement were presented at the graduation in the Post Theatre at the Defense Language Institute, West Coast Branch, on October 29.

Approximately 74 students representing all four of the Armed Forces were graduated in four languages--Russian, Spanish, Vietnamese and Thai.

Colonel Kibbey M. Horne, commandant, presented the Association of the United States Army Plaque to Seaman Russell L. Bailey, Jr., a student of Spanish.

Mr. Neil Gardner, publisher of the Pacific Grove Tribune, presented the Pacific Grove Kiwanis Club Award--Shadle, a student of Vietnamese.

The Pushkin Award, the Russian Faculty Book Award, was given to Specialist Four Robert A. Schmiege by Mr. Michael Belikoff, chairman of of the Advanced Russian Branch.

The Vietnamese Faculty Book Award went to Seaman Donald P. Shadle. Mr. Pham D. Tai, chairman of the Vietnamese Branch made the presentation.

The Spanish Faculty Book Award was presented to Sergeant First Class Larry Greer by DR. Luis Vargas, Spanish Branch chairman.

Receiving certificates of achievement were: Seaman Shadle; Lieutenant Junior Grade Daniel E. Lee, a student of Russian; Seaman Larry D. Chrisman, Russian; Seaman Gregory P. Rietema, Russian; Howard E. Stoelting, Russian; Sergeant Greer and Seaman Bailey.

Two dependent wives were also graduated. Mrs. Ruth J. Lee, who was sponsored by her husband, Lieutenant Lee graduated with honors in Russian, and Mrs. Mary C. Grebauer, a student of Spanish, sponsored by her husband, Sergeant First Class Gus W. Grebauer.

New Exhibit Opens at Museum of Art

Two well-known names in Southern California will be introduced to the Peninsula with an exhibit of the works of Rene Groch and Anthony Amato at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific Street, Monterey, (across from Colton Hall), during the month of November.

The Main Gallery will be dovoted to the sculptures of Amato and the paintings of Mrs. Groch. Both are represented in important private collections--three of Mr. Amato's pieces were recently acquired by celebrated cellist Gregor Piatagorsky and Mrs. Groch's paintings are owned by such notables as Mrs. Myford Irvine, Sheldon Leonard, Bill Cosby and Peggy Lipton.

Mrs. Groch, winner of prizes almost wherever she enters her paintings, is a busy wife and mother who works full-time at her art.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, she has been a Californian for the past twenty years and lives in Los Altos Hills.
lives in Los Altos Hills.

She has been given the First Award Oil Painting and Bess Gilbert Award from the Fine Arts Museum of San Diego, first award purchase prizes by the Downey Museum of Art Show Tenth Annual and the Westside Jewish Commthe Westside Jewish Community Center Thirteenth Annual as well as a cash award from the Ankrum Gallery Contemporary 11 Show.

Her works have been seen in numerous art museums and colleges in Southern California and at the Stanford University Museum in Palo Alto.

Mr. Amato was taught stone-cutting by his father and grandfather in Italy. Given the tools of the trade instead of toys at the age of four, he learned his craft well.

The challenge of the medium and the inspiration of his heritage led him into sculpture. His works in marble, alabaster and pink granite are modern and timeless.

Bill Will Aid Veterans

The bill President Nixon signed into law late last week, H.R. 693, will open Veterans Administration hospitals to thousands of additional disabled veterans at a saving to the taxpayer of an estimated $8.5 million a year.

Senator Alan Cranston (D., Calif.), chairman of the Veterans Affairs Subcommittee and author of the provision in the bill that will bring about this unusual combination, explained it this way:

"Veterans with service-connected disabilities can get treatment at a VA hospital regardless of their financial condition. But that is not the case for veterans with disabilities not connected with their military service. Before these men can be admitted to a VA hospital, they must first be "unable to defray the expenses of necessary medical care." Their financial condition is established officially by their taking the so-called "pauper's oath".

Under the Cranston amendment, the financial means test has been dropped for non-service-connected disabled veterans aged 65 and over. It has also been dropped for veterans of any age who receive a pension for non-service-connected total and permanent disability.

The logic behind discontinuing the pauper'soath for elderly veterans, Cranston explained, rests on the fact that these men are automatically eligible for admission to civilian hospitals under government-sponsored Medicare anyway, regardless of their income. And Medicare costs the taxpayer more than does treatment in a VA hospital.

With the Cranston amendment now law, these elderly veterans will be able to choose between going to a community hospital or a VA hospital, if a doctor determines they require admission. Thousands of them will prefer going to a VA hospital, Cranston said. He pointed out that unlike Medicare, which requires the patient to pay the first $50 of his medical bill, the VA has no "deductible" item.

Based on information supplied him by the VA, Cranston estimated that about 10,500 veteran-patients a year, who otherwise would have gone into Medicare hospitals, will now choose instead to go into VA hospitals.

Because only about 85 percent of the VA's 100,000 hospital beds are occupied, VA beds will be available in many areas, Cranston said.

He pointed out that the VA thus will be able to "get more for its tax dollar" through maximum use of its 166 hospitals. "But the taxpayer will get even more direct benefits under the new law," Cranston continued.

He noted that tax-supported Medicare reimburses a community hospital at an average of $78-a-day. In contrast, the VA figures its operating costs run only $52 a day. Thus, those 10,500 extra patients, whom Cranston and the VA predict will now choose veterans hospitals, will add $10,920,000 annually to VA costs. But had those same men gone to community hospitals under Medicare, they would have cost the taxpayer $19,447,000 -- a savings of more than $8.5 million a year.

"Ironically, the financial means test -- which was originally intended to limit government expenditures -- has been costing the taxpayer millions of dollars since Medicare went into effect," Cranston said. "By doing away with the means test for elderly disabled veterans, we have simultaneously done away with the demeaning, humiliating pauper's oath, opened up for our nation's veterans freedom of choice in medical care and saved taxpayer money."

Cranston and the VA base their figures on an average hospitalization stay of 20 days. The $78-a-day rate under Medicare would total $16,380 000 for those 10,500 patients. There would be an additional Medicare expense of $3,592,000 for physician and additional Medicare expense of $3 592,000 for physician and surgical care, making a gross total of $19,972,000. Of this, $525,000 would be deductible and not paid by the government. The estimated VA expense of $10,920,000 is based on a flat $52-a-day cost.

Veterans with service-connected disabilities will not be affected by the Cranston amendment, which the President signed October 22. They will continue to be given priority in the allocation of available VA beds.

Cranston said the new law will potentially benefit 1.5 million World War I veterans, whose average age is about 75 and 1.3 million World War II veterans, who are or will shortly be 65 years or older.

California, first among the states in veterans population with 2,992,000 ex-servicemen from all wars, has 100,000 Spanish-American veterans, 148,000 World War I veterans, 1,584,000 veterans of World War II, 519,000 Korean War veterans, 414,000 Vietnam War veterans and 326,000 ex-servicemen who were in uniform between Korea and Vietnam. Included in these totals are 255,000 veterans who served in both Korea and Vietnam and 1,262,000 who served in both World II and Korea.

Seaside Ripples

ing was being led by Nixon, the President of the United States, and Spiro Agnew, the Vice-President; was chorused by Reagan, Unruh, Murphy and Rafferty in California and by similar fearful voices throughout the land.

There were certainly plenty of problems to campaign for and against. The country is in the worst inflation period in its history. There is more unemployment than ever. The war in Vietnam continues as a drain on our young men and material resources. Law and Order versus freedom and dissent fill the news columns. Shootings of policemen by hoodlums and shooting of innocent bystanders by policemen and National Guardsmen are everyday occurences. Nobody seems to care about anything. At a time like this we need every sober thought possible to help bring about sanity to a completely confused citizenry. Instead, we have hate and fear spewed at us from all sides. There was plenty to talk about on both sides of all the issues without having to resort to the spreading of false rumors and hatred of man for man.

Hatred is not a natural attribute of man. Love is. Hate doesn't naturally exist in people. Love does. Frustration, fear and ignorance do exist, while hatred has to be generated from the outside of man by those who would use his emotions to further their own political ends. Certainly today's citizenry is frustrated by the seeming lack of success by government to solve the tremendous problems of inflation, unemployment and war.

No matter whom we elect, Democrat or Republican, we get the same old trite answers. And the war continues and the unemployment gets worse and the groceries at the supermarket go up and up. No wonder that the spreaders of hate and fear seem to succeed. We can't let them. We have to become more and more aware of the truth and of the truth about each and every issue. It is not easy when you get to the point where everything you read or see on the television is slanted toward a particular end. When even the commercials are untruthful and the government has to call down the manufacturers on their lies to an unsuspecting public.

How can we know what truth is. How can we keep from getting frustrated. I don't know. Today I had to turn to Gibran for some assurance that Love and Beauty exist. I have to walk on the beach and watch nature at work in the waves and on the rocks. I have to watch the sun rise once in a while and watch it set, too, and enjoy the beauty of the colors of the sunrise and sunset. All of these things I have to do to try and find some serenity and peace. I guess that you can call it reflection or meditation or just plain prayer, but these days I have to do a lot of it, whatever it is, to retain my sense of balance and to remain aware of the important things in Life, such as Love and Beauty.

Letter to Editor

Editor: We have asked the schools of Seaside to give this letter to their students so that they, in turn, may pass it on to their parents.

Our desire to communicate with them is motivated by the simplest of reasons and we have no wish to disguise that reason.

The Seaside National Little League is in serious difficulty and may well cease to exist. To avoid that possibility we are turning to them for help. Most of the parents undoubtedly are familiar with Little League activity and therefore there is no need to describe this activity in lengthy detail. Primarily, of course, Little League's chief functions are to teach boys to play baseball and to give them an opportunity to play the game with organized teams of boys of their age range. But equally important is the opportunity for boys to be exposed to teamwork and sportsmanship.

During the past few years, boys have been signing up for Little League play in gratifying numbers--and almost without exception they are enthusiastic and eager to participate. Regretfully, this cannot be said for their parents. And the truth is that without the participation of the adults Little League activity is doomed to failure. Not only do the boys have an understandable desire to show their skills to adults in the grandstands, but the Leagues cannot function without certain tangible assistance.

For instance, we need parents to act as scorekeepers, umpires, managers and coaches. We also need help on a rotating basis in running the snack bar. The mother's auxiliary also needs more participation.

So there it is. We believe that Little League services are wholesome and constructive recreational outlets for many Seaside boys--those between nine and twelve years of age in the major League and boys eight years of age on the farm teams. However, we cannot do the job alone and therefore are making this appeal to you.

On November 10, we will hold a general meeting to discuss next year's season. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Ord Terrace School in Seaside. We hope that parents will plan to attend--to give us suggestions and, hopefully, help.

Sincerely,

Preston Biggers,
President, Seaside National League

PROTECTION

About 15 million people suffer from tuberculosis. For 25¢, UNICEF provides the BCG vaccine to protect 25 children from that disease.

Vets Invited As Apprentices

Veterans may train for skilled trades through apprenticeships in approximately 350 jobs and learn while they earn.

They will be paid nearly half the wages of skilled journeymen to start, with wage increases every six months.

Veterans seeking to participate may write Office of Information, United States Department of Labor, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, Room 10007, San Francisco, CA 94102, asking for the red flyer entitled "Veterans! Train For a Skilled Trade Through Apprenticeship."

Eligible veterans participating full-time in an approved apprenticeship training program will receive monthly VA training allowances in amounts determined by the number of dependents.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I'm separated from my husband and have gone back to work. What do I do about my tax return this year?

A) If you are not legally separated, you have a choice of filing a joint return with your husband or filing a separate return for yourself. If you are separated under an interlocutory decree of divorce you may also file a joint return.

On a joint return, your income and expenses are combined with your husband's and the tax is figured on these totals. Although you and your husband may reach agreement for each of you to pay a part of the tax, legally you and your husband are each responsible for the whole amount. Should either of you not pay the share agreed upon, the other is liable for the full amount.

On a separate return report just your income and compute the tax on that. However, you must both handle your deductions the same way. If either itemizes, so must the other.

Details on preparing returns for 1970 will be available early in January. If you have any questions after reading the tax instructions contact your local IRS office. They will be glad to help you.

Q) What expenses do you count to see if you made a profit on the sale of a home?

A) Typical expenses that can be deducted from the sales price are broker's fees and commissions, advertising costs and legal fees.

Loan charges, such as placement fees or points, may also be added to your other selling costs.

Q) My refund hasn't come and I never have heard what happened to it. What should I do?

A) Write your regional IRS service center and ask them to check on your refund. Be sure to give your name, address, social security number and date the return was filed. If you have moved since you filed also give your former address.

If it is more convenient, call your local IRS office about the refund.

Q) I've been given a fellowship so I can complete work on my graduate degree. Do I have to pay tax on it?

A) Income from a fellowship is usually tax exempt. If you are a candidate for a degree there is no limit on the amount of income you can receive tax-free from a fellowship or scholarship grant.

However, if you teach or perform other services in connection with the award, the portion of the award that represents payment for this work is generally taxable. This rule does not apply if all candidates for the degree, whether they have a fellowship or not, are also required to perform these services.

For additional information send a postcard to your IRS District Director for a free copy of Publication 507, "Tax Information On Scholarships and Fellowships."

Bronze Star Awarded to Marina Man

Sergeant first class Fred M. Bottenfield, whose wife lives in Marina, recently received the bronze star medal in Vietnam.

He was presented the bronze star medal for distinguishing himself through tinguishing himself through meritorious service in connection with military operations against hostile forces in Vietnam. The medal, adopted in 1944, recognizes outstanding achievement.

Sgt. Bottenfield received the award while assigned as a stock control and accounting specialist at the U.S. army inventory control center.

Red Cross Luncheon Is Held

An awards luncheon climaxed the quarterly conference of the Red Cross Four Counties Regional Blood Center hosted by the Fort Ord Red Cross last week. Leading up to the conference's finale was a workshop session and a report on the Army Vietnam Blood Program.

At the luncheon, Mr. John B. Youngs, Red Cross Field Director, Fort Ord, introduced Dr. N. Manfred Shaffer, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Blood Center. He presented certificate awards to the United States Army Training Center, Infantry; The United States Combat Developments Command Experimentation Command; the Department of Defense Language School, West Coast; the Naval Postgraduate School and the Naval Auxiliary Landing Field, for their participation in the blood program.

The Blood Center supplies all the whole blood used in all the civilian hospitals in the Four California Counties surrounding the Fort Ord complex, and is the backup Blood Center for all military hospitals in this area. All blood donations given by members of the Armed Forces in the area, exclusive of the military blood program are given to this Blood Center.

Any serviceman contributing to the Red Cross Military Blood Program secures coverage for his entire family, regardless of where they live, for one year's time after the donation. Any immediate family member of a serviceman overseas residing in this area receives blood from this bank whether the serviceman has contributed blood during his tour here or not.

During the workshop session, Mr. S. Capps Hoshour, Administrator of the Blood Center, San Jose, explained the expanded mission of the Red Cross Blood Center to include all the blood required for the Stanford University Hospital and Research Center.

Captain Dennis E. Hohn of the Fort Ord Hospital staff, explained the Army Vietnam Blood Program to the delegates. He showed slides of the programs operation from the time blood is drawn at the Fort Ord Hospital until it reaches the patient in Vietnam.

Youngs announced that the next Fort Ord Red Cross blood drawing will be held at the Youth Center on the 17th of November.

Urges New Standards

Ralph Nader and his consumer group recently complained that automobile manufacturers use materials that are too highly flammable for car interiors.

Nader proposed that the government set a new standard to make interiors nearly fireproof.

The action was prompted by a study of the National Highway Safety Bureau, which is considering a regulation requiring materials used in car interiors to burn at no more than four inches per minute.

New Commander Named

Lieutenant Charles O. McCoy of Campbell has assumed command of Company A, 1st Battalion, 149th Armor California Army National Guard, located at the Monterey Armory on the Monterey Peninsula College campus.

The former Commander, Captain Walter E. Savage of Pacific Grove, has been assigned as the Battalion Communications officer.

LT. McCoy is employed as a Deputy Sheriff by the County of Santa Clara.

Grooving Around The Peninsula

with Betty Mann

The big day in Seaside last week was the 2nd Annual Soap Box Derby sponsored by YOUNG ADULTS FOR ACTION. This year was even bigger and better than last year.

The day of activities began with a free pancake breakfast for everyone in the community held at King Jr. High. The breakfast began at 8 a.m. and was cooked and prepared by the U.S. Army cook trainees from Fort Ord.

The second big event that occured at King Jr. High was a musical concert by the 40 piece 28th Army Band from Fort Ord.

Following the concert, all actvities switched from King to Ord Terrace School where the races began at 12:30. After 14 elimination heats, the finals were run with the first place winner making a repeat performance from last year. Little Junior Johnson was the winner of the Mini Bike. Since this young man already is the owner of a Mini Bike, he donated it to Highland School for their raffle. We feel that this was the most gracious gesture that could have been made by anyone.

As this reporter interviewed Jimmy Roy, the Program Administrator for YOUNG ADULTS FOR ACTION, he indicated that there were some complaints following the races, but he said this is expected. Jimmy indicated that usually the "community concern" comes to focus when something goes wrong. but when YAFA appeal to the community for volunteer support"...our telephones in the office are silent."

"There is only one man in our office who is assigned to recreation, which meant the rest of our staff had to contribute time to get this event on" Jimmy said. He continued "... George Solomon, Recreation Director should be highly commended for all of the recreational activities he has been responsible for in Seaside. One of his major accomplishments is the Pop Warner Football Team that presently is running away with all records and this is only their first year in the league, but we don't hear any compliments for these activities that give Seaside's youngsters something constructive and wholesome to participate in."

Mr. Roy reiterated his feelings that "...we have received over ten calls this morning (Monday, 10-26) in reference to the 'wrong wheel' incident at the Derby, but we have not received one call complimenting our efforts to try to at least do our best to provide organized activities for the youth of the community."

There were other errors made during this year's Soap Box Derby but it should be remembered that this is only the second year for this particular event and it was much more successful than last year and as each year goes by it will improve. It will also be much more successful if the parents of the community show more concern for what Y.A.F.A. is trying to accomplish. They can do this by contacting Y.A.F.A. to see what can be done, not only at Soap Box Derby Time, but all through the year.

In the finals, the first place prize went to Junior Johnson, who as indicated above, donated it to Highland School; Adrian Roy was the winner of the bicycle and the third place wrist watch went to Edward Johnson. The first runner-up was David Eoff who was awarded a $25.00 Gift Certificate; the second runner-up was Luther Laing who was granted a $15.00 gift certificate. Best looking cart award went to Charles Edward Folsom Jr.; Certificates are presently being prepared for other participants.

Among the many distinguished guests present were Mrs. Charlie Knight; Dr. Henry Hutchins; Councilman Stephen Ross; Rev. H.H. Lusk; Rev. Slade; Mrs. Vivian Holly; Mr. Walter Brown; Mrs. Jane Van Hook; Mrs. Marion Woodie; Mr. Carter Weydeveld; Mayor Lou Haddad; County Supervisor Loren Smith;

Working in the concession stands were: Mrs. Georgette Winston; Mrs. Estella Roy and Mrs. Mayor Pryor;

Officiating were: Mrs. Mary Powell; Mr. James Pryor and Mrs. Helen Rucker. YOUNG ADULTS FOR ACTION express their regrets that they are unable to acknowledge all of the persons who did help by volunteering their time and services. Y.A.F.A. also thank all of the merchants who contributed heavily to the success of the breakfast and races.

We all look forward to next year with the hope in mind that we will have 100 percent community support to insure all of the youngsters of the Seaside a truly memorable day. All in all, it was wonderful day for the kids and the Staff of Y.A.F.A. will continue to do their best to provide the youth with good wholesome recreation and respectfully solicit the assistance and service of the adults in the community to join in with our efforts.

Other exciting events on the peninsula included the Monterey Bicenteninal parade that was held on Sunday morning. The parade was a very beautiful and historic event that will be warmly remembered by all Peninsulans that participated in its many events. For those of you who missed all of the exciting happenings during this 200th Bicentennial year forget it because you won't be around to make the next one. Heh heh! Well, anyway, yours truly, along with Miss Rughie Watts, Mrs. Dessie Ellis and Mrs. Barbara Tucker, were participants in Sundays parade; the fou of us were hostesses of Afro-American week.

BETTY

FOLLIES' DOLLIES - Benefit variety show, sponsored by MONTEREY-Cypress American Legion Axiliary 694, to raise money to furnish their new building, Marina Hall, gathered "beauties" from all over peninsula. Famous Artist Is Exhibited

Drawings by Louise Cardiero Boyer are featured in a show in the Samuel F. B. Morse Auditorium at the Monterey Institute of Foriegn Studies, 440 Van Buren Street Monterey.

The public is invitied to view the exhibit between 1 and 5 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Mrs. Boyer graduated from the Boston Museum School an studied later with Xavier Gonzalez, Hans Hofmann and Carlos Merida in Mexico City. She has exhibited in many cities in the United States, in Mexico City, Guatemala City, Quezaltenango, Quito and Munich, Germany.

She is the wife of concert pianist Gilbert Boyer.

Through Dr. Frank Laubach the great worker in literacy campaigns all over the world, the Boyers became interested in leteracy and spent from 1959 through 1964 in Latin America.

Mr. Boyer wrote materials for teaching reading to adult illiterates, later directing the Laubach Projects in Latin America and becoming the Peace Corps Coordinator for literacy work in Colombia.

Mrs. Boyer worked as illustrator of materials and taught many workers in the field how to illustrate their own charts and books.

Included in the exhibition is a sheet of illustrations for "Jose y Juana" produced for Mexico and Central America.

In 1965 before returning to their art and music careers in the United States, they spent a period of study in Europe.

PLEASE HELP

Editor: Last Sunday (October 18), we lost our dog at the Laguna Seca Races. After exhausting all other ways of locating her, we decided to ask you and your readers for help.

The dog answers to the name of "Bean." She is a very friendly Lab cross, weighing from 25-30 pounds. She is completely black except for a white spot on each of her back feet. She is lightly built, and was wearing only a black flea collar.

She is expecting puppies in early December, and needs some special care.

If anyone has seen or heard the whereabouts of this dog, please call: 408 724-6273 collect, or write: Wendy Danno, 6 West 5th Street, Watsonville, CA 95076.

Any help will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Wendy Danno

Banker Urges Response to Challenge

A leading banker has urged the nation's businessmen to become more responsive to social challenges and the American shareowner to support business in its efforts to adapt to changing times.

"Either we choose intelligent evolution for the corporate enterprise, permitting it to be responsive to social challeges or we can expect something more drastic imposed by others," said A.W. Clausen.

The president of Bank of America emphasized, "We don't need to eliminate change--we need to tame it.

"The challenge is to learn how to use technology intelligently to control the rate of change that human beings can reasonably assimilate within a fixed span of time."

Addressing the 1970-71 Business Outlook Conference of the Greater Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce at the Biltmore Hotel, Clausen expressed the belief that America's free enterprise system "offers the individual the greatest hope in the world we're entering.

"But the system's status in that world is not guaranteed. It must be earned. And it can be earned and enhanced only if it recognizes and uses its own greatest strengths: its innate adaptability and its capacity to manage change to provide services which society as a whole needs or desires--cannot achieve as well through other means.

"Corporate enterprise has survived and contributed to human society so far because it has evolved, adapting to changing demands of society at large. It will be able to survive in tomorrow's world only if it continues to follow an evolutionary course of action."

Some business spokesmen are espousing an attitude Clausen dubbed "inadequate."

Citing a recent article by Professor Milton Firedman in The New York Times Magazine, Clausen took issue with the premise that "increasing profits is the one and only responsibility of business."

"For one, I am troubled by this oversimplification of the problem. Nobody can expect to make profits--or to have any meaningful use for profits--if the whole fabric of society is being ripped to shreds."

Wood Says New Bill Is Good

Assemblyman Bob Wood has announced that he was particularly pleased that Governor Reagan signed a bill which would increase pension benefits to thousands of our state's senior citizens, elderly and totally disabled people.

The Assemblyman stated that he was one of several Republicans, including Speaker Bob Monagan, who voted originally for a previous bill which also would have allowed the elderly on a state pension the right to keep their small $7.50 per month increase in their social security check without deducting a like amount from their state old age pensions.

Wood said that although there would be a saving to the state if this small amount was deducted from each recipient, he based his decision on the fact that he feels there are many other areas where the state can save taxpayers dollars without taking it from the elderly and disabled who are solely, in some cases dependent on their old age security checks for their very existence.

The same bill would also allow the recipient of an outside source of income to keep the additional $7.50. This increase is the result of federal authorizations which allowed the state to pass on this increase.

During the past several years, most states extended this benefit to their citizens and California will join this group.

Amounts of Mercury Are Found Small

Insignificant amounts of mercury have been found in California's domestic water supplies, a special State task force reported last week.

Concentrations of the toxic metal in reservoirs and other water sources sampled were said to be less than two parts per billion.

Even drinking water supplies near active mercury mines are safe, public health sanitary engineers reported to Governor Ronald Reagan's interdepartmental committee on mercury in the environment.

The committee was appointed in July to determine if a public health hazard exists following reports of elevated mercury levels in some sport fish and wild fowl.

In Sacramento the group met to put finishing touches on a biological sampling and testing program being conducted by health, conservation and water quality agencies.

"We expect to know before opening of pheasant season November 21 what levels of mercury, if any, are present in these birds," said Dr. Ephraim Kahn, committee chairman.

Mercury-treated seed on agricultural land are possible sources of contamination in pheasants, the committee noted. Farmers have been advised to drill treated seed well into the ground and to take precautions against accidental spills.

While expressing satisfaction with the small mercury content of water supplies in California, Dr. Kahn said this is not related to the level of mercury toxicity in striped bass and other game fish.

"We believe that microorganisms in mud and sediment which contain large amounts of mercury may convert the element into an organic form which can be absorbed and stored by fish feeding on the material," he said.

"This methylated mercury can build up in the tissues of large species, such as bass and sturgeon, in effect contaminating one of nature's food chains."

Dr. Kahn said, however, that recent U.S. Food and Drug Administration tests of fish imported from Hawaii and of mackerel caught off the southern California coast showed non-hazardous levels of mercury.

A few striped bass and crayfish caught recently by the Department of Fish and Game in Carquinez Straits and the Sacramento River near Courtland also were relatively free of mercury.

Systematic statewide sampling has just been completed and test results will not be known for several weeks.

Dr. Kahn said State and regional water quality control boards have sampled industrial, agricultural, and municipal waste discharges throughout California without finding appreciable amounts of mercury.

Union Oil Sells Steam

The geyser area of Northern California will be converted into the world's largest source of electrical energy generated by geothermal steam by the Union Oil Company of California, according to Chemical Week magazine.

The magazine says that contracts have been signed which will enable Union Oil, the Magma Power Company and the Thermal Power Company to sell steam to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Union Oil's contract calls for the delivery of steam to increase the generating capacity of PG&E to more than 600,000 kilowatts by 1975. Thereafter, minimum annual additions will be about 100,000 kilowatts.

Ford Deliveries Were Up 7 Percent Although Auto Industry Fell 23Percent

During the ten-day period October 11-20, Ford dealers delivered 71,466 American-style cars, according to the Ford Motor Company.

The company says this figure is up 7 percent from 66,609 sold a year ago.

The entire industry' sales in mid-October totaled 181,828 United States type cars, down 23 percent from the figures a year ago.

The GM-UAW strike accounts for the decline.

Ford terms its Pinto "a hit in the marketplace," with mid-month sales at 6,640.

There is no sign of a quick end to the GM strike which began September 15.

Both the union and the automobile company are attempting to settle their plant level disputes before tackling the major issues.

Approximately a third of the plant-level disputes have now been settled.

Truck output in the United States was estimated at 24,557 last week, down from 24,732 the week prior and 25,888 in the like week of 1969.

In Canada, auto production last week was projected at 16,586 cars against 13,199 the prior week and 25,888 in the comparable week last year.

Canadian truck output for last week was estimated at 4,142 units, compared with 3,286 built the week before and 6,765 in the corresponding week a year ago.

PTA Again Distributing

Street, Sacramento 95814. The deadline for return is March 31, 1971.

To be eligible for a scholarship, a student must have completed the first year of the Associate Degree Nursing Program, and for counseling and guidance the student must already be employed half-time or more in school counseling.

Recipients are selected in accordance with California PTA stipulations on the basis of financial need and instructor recommendations. In all casses except two this is done by authorized administrators of the colleges and strators of the colleges and universities. Candidates for the youth corrections and the counseling and guidance scholarships are selected by the California PTA scholarship committee aided by professional people in these fields. Each recipient assumes an obligation following graduation to teach for one year in the public schools of California or to serve for one year in California in his specialized field.

Members of the scholarship committee are: Mrs. Winston Clare, Los Angeles, chairman; Mrs. O.G. Carpenter, Oakland; Mrs. Fred B. Bennett, Santa Barbara; Mrs. T.R. French, Inglewood; Mrs. Kenneth M. Smith, Santa Ana; Mrs. Harold Sprague, Garden Grove; Mrs. Richard Wirta, Willits; and Fred Strait, Mount San Antonio College.

Instituted in 1945, the PTA Scholarship Program is financed by the organization's well-known Honorary Life Membership Program Fund, which since 1927 has also supported its larger Student Loan Program.

As of May 31, 1970, 125,764 individuals had received an honorary award and more than 13,312 students and teachers had benefited from the fund. The total amount invested by the California PTA for loans, scholarships and fellowships is $4,279,964.

As of this year fellowships have been discontinued since PTA leaders have concluded that more young people can be assisted through scholarships. The name of the Honorary Life Membership has now been changed to the Honorary Service Award and the Continuing Service Award has been added.

The PTA has allocated $210,000 for student loans during the current year. Student loans are available to high school graduates who are attending an institution of higher learning or are planning to continue into vocational training, community college, college or university. Application forms are available from the State PTA Office.

Students can secure $400 per year for a 2-year period for lower division or junior college work; $600 per year for a 2-year period for upper division and $800 per year not exceeding four years for graduate work. The maximum loan any student may be granted by the California PTA for his total education is $5,200.

Student loans are granted by the student loan committee at its bi-monthly meetings. The loans are interest free and require no co-signer. Over the years only slightly more than one percent of the loans have not been repaid, according to PTA financial officers.

Members of the student loan committee are: Mes. Jerome Townsend, Sherman Oaks, chairman; Mrs. Avery Streech, Fullerton; Mrs. Dale Birdsall, Livermore; Mrs. OG Carpenter, Oakland; Mrs. Elton Dunlap, Sherman Oaks; Mrs. O.G. Carpenter, Oakland; Mrs. Elton Dunlap, Sherman Oaks; Mrs. Hiam N. Emery, Spring Valley; Mrs. A.E. Engel Portola; Mrs. Kenneth Gosling Bakersfield; Mrs. R.V. Hauser, Los Angeles; Mrs. J.B. Mills, Glen Ellen; Mrs. L.E. Montenegro, Los Angeles; Mrs. William Sorensen, Whittier; Mrs. E.D. Willmore, Westminster; and Mrs. Frank E. Wills, Maxwell.

LANDMARK - This old house used to stand across street from where Bank of America now stands on Fremont Boulevard in Seaside. It was named "Redman's Home" by old Choctaw Indian, Dr. White Wolf. Originally built as home for Indians, it burned down and was never rebuilt. These facts and picture are from Pictorial Review of History that Monterey Savings and Loan is now compiling. It will cover history of Monterey from beginning to 1908. Meeting was held last week at Seaside Chamber of Commerce to help John Keller of Monterey S&L put together some history of Seaside. It was called by Juanita Brilliar, Secretary of Art Commission. In attendance in addition to Art Bayer, Secretary of Seaside C of C were: Shirley Bagby, who came here from Witchita in 1919; Charlie Bentley who came from New York in 1906 and Ed Haws, who migrated to peninsula from San Francisco in 1902.

REASSIGNED - Airman Gale A. Foss, son of Mrs. Audra Foss of Marina, has completed basic training at Lackland AFC, Texas, for training in aircraft maintenance.
